PUENTE HILLS LANDFILL PARK

LA County Department of Arts and Culture Seeks Artists or Artist Teams for Sculpture(s) at Entrance to Puente Hills Landfill Park

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Thursday, January 30, 2025, 5pm PST

BUDGET

OVERVIEW

The Los Angeles County Department of Arts and Culture's Civic Art Division invites artists or artist teams to submit qualifications to design, fabricate and install one or more sculptures for the entry plaza of the Environmental Justice Center, which will welcome visitors to the future Puente Hills Landfill Park.

The goals of Puente Hills Landfill Park are to provide public access to nature and hands-on discovery for all, by creating and maintaining an accessible and engaging park, healing local ecosystems, demonstrating regenerative practices, advocating environmental justice, and providing a public forum for learning, sharing, and advancing best practices.

The Civic Art Division works with established and emerging artists to commission new artworks, community engagement activities, temporary art installations, and event-based programming for new and renovated County facilities. Completed projects and artworks are accessioned into the Los Angeles County Civic Art Collection consisting of over 600 historic and contemporary artworks from over 300 artists, including new civic art commissions, donations, and artwork purchases.

PROJECT SITE/LOCATION

The Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation, in collaboration with landscape architects OJB, will re-purpose the former Puente Hills Landfill site into a 142-acre park situated at the western end of Puente Hills. The park will offer sweeping views of the San Gabriel mountains and provide a wide range of recreational, cultural, and educational opportunities. The green space will help reduce temperatures, conserve water, and support biodiversity. It will be the first new regional park in the County in more than three decades.

The civic art opportunity for one or more sculptures is located in the entry plaza in front of the park's Environmental Justice Center. The artwork will help set the tone for visitors as they enter the park.

PUENTE HILL LANDFILL BACKGROUND/COMMUNITY

The Puente Hill Landfill originally opened in the Puente Hills canyons of the San Gabriel Valley in 1956 as the 1,200-acre San Gabriel Valley Dump. The landfill was purchased in 1970 by the Los Angeles County Sanitation Districts and expanded to 1,365 acres, making it the second-largest landfill in the United States at that time. A joint powers agreement established in 1987 between the Sanitation Districts and Los Angeles County, and in compliance with Assembly Bill 2632, ensured that portions of the landfill would ultimately be allocated for park and recreational use after landfill operations ceased. This bill, authored by then Assemblymember Hilda L. Solis, highlighted her commitment to environmental justice and community well-being, earning her the 2000 John F. Kennedy Profile in Courage Award. After resolving legal disputes between the Sanitation Districts and the County, Supervisor Solis is spearheading the creation of the first new regional park in over 35 years to provide recreational, educational, and cultural opportunities for future generations of Angelenos.

In 2016, a Master Plan was introduced to guide the landfill's transformation into a regional park. By 2022, the County approved funding to support both the park's development and the restoration of the surrounding native habitat. A robust community engagement initiative was launched to ensure the park's design aligns with the needs and desires of local residents.

The project will unfold in phases over the coming years, prioritizing enhanced public access to the site. Once completed, the park will feature a diverse array of amenities, including: walking and hiking trails, an art plaza, outdoor classrooms, a dog run, a scenic overlook, a performance meadow, a native plant nursery, a café, ceremonial spaces, interpretive gardens, a bike skills course, equestrian staging, and picnic areas.

This ambitious endeavor will transform the area into a vibrant center for outdoor activities and community engagement, serving nearby communities such as Hacienda Heights, Montebello, Whittier, El Monte, and the City of Industry.
